1682-3 Mary the dau'r of M^r Charles Bave and Elizabeth his wife, 2^d March.

[The search was continued to 1700, but no more entries of Bave were found.]

Marriage.

1723-4 Feb. 6 Edward Harington, M.B., and Esther Bave both of this city were married by licence.

* The discovery of his baptism at any church would be of great value in continuing the lines of Bave genealogy.

† This was a first-born John, son of John by the Hon. Lady Dionesse his wife, and his burial entry appears in the Abbey books 12 August, four days after his birth. The second John, son of same parents, was buried at Kelston 1624; then, in 1627, was born at Kelston third John, who not only survived but also married four times, and outlived three of his wives.

‡ He was baptized at the Abbey 13 February 1677-8. This christening must mean his admission to the Church, with appointment of godparents. He was probably baptized privately in the first instance; and his parents, not being aware of the entry made at the Abbey, had him again registered at St. James two years afterwards, when he was admitted. The parents appear to have gone to reside in St. James parish (in a newly built house) about 1680; hence the entries at the Abbey cease with the baptisms of Stafford Bave in December 1679, and commence at St. James 1680.

* The blanks in this entry are able to be filled up from the transcripts at Gloucester with the christian name Samuel and the month August. The original entry in Bitton Registers is partly torn away, and immediately after it ensues an hiatus of about fifteen years. This portion of Bitton Registers was in fragments until all that remained were gathered together, mended, and caused to be bound up by the present Vicar's father, author of the 'History of Bitton,' and now Rector of Clyst St. George near Exeter—the Rev. H. T. Ellacombe.

† This Register dates from 1538, but being written on parchment and in a uniform hand for half a century or more is evidently a copy of the original. Throughout the seventeenth century it is poorly written and imperfect. Wm. Cole, J.P., presided at the contracts of matrimony during the Commonwealth registration.

‡ See her baptism, 1709, as Elizabeth-Anne-Mary.

§ The mothers' christian names are comparatively rare throughout these Registers. The burial entry of Ellinor, first wife of Wm. Bave, was not to be found, though careful search for it was made over the years 1710–32.

‖ This child must have been the William of 1709, and the son born in 1715 received his name; all the rest, except Ellinor and the William of 1709, are named in the will of the father, 1733.

It appears that the Dutry family is extinct in Holland, but that the Van Haeften family, who was allied to that of Dutry, have taken the name of the latter in addition to their own. It is still represented, 1884, by the following members:

1. B. Dutry van Haeften, 44ª Heerengracht, Hague, Holland.
2. Mr. J. Dutry van Haeften, formerly of Dordrecht, now Judge in North Africa.
3. D. Dutry van Haeften, Lieutenant de Cavalerie, Regt. at Deventer.
4. Mr. N. J. Dutry van Haeften, Burgomaster of Haaften, Holland.

Thanks are due to Monsieur Gonnet, Sub-Archivist at Haarlem, for the information concerning the Haarlem portion of the genealogy.

N.B.—The genealogy of Du Trieu, which family is undoubtedly the same as Dutry, is given in Goethal's 'Dictionaire Genealogique et Heraldique,' Bruxelles, 1852, in which is given a Jan Dutrieu, the son of Jan Du Trieu (who was born in 1592, and died at Hal 30 Aug. 1655) and Elisabeth de Ketelboetere, who died young; this early death is probably incorrect. He was the grandson of Bertrand Du Trieu who married Marguerite Delmotte. This family is still represented in Belgium, and is probably descended from the father who disinherited his son Jan for joining the Reformed Church.

HENRY SHANK, ESQ.
CASTLERIG & GLENISTON, CO. FIFE.

Family of Schank (Shank or Schankis) of Castlerig, Kinghorn, co. Fife, N.B.

Communicated by E. G. W.

.... Schank of that ilk was of a very ancient family in Mid Lothian. (Nisbet.)

Murdoch Schank, who was an immediate son of Schank of that ilk, settled in Kinghorn in Fife, and got lands there in the reign of Robert Bruce, anno 1319. (Nisbet.) Tradition says that he found the body of King Alexander III. among the cliffs at Kinghorn 1286, and for this service he received a gift of the lands of Castlerig, near Kinghorn, from King Robert Bruce.

Robert Schankis. Lands of Robert Schankis are mentioned in a charter of confirmation dated 1360 as bounding certain lands in Kinghorn. = Isabel Irvine.

John Schank. = ... Kirkcaldie.

Possibly Robert Schank*is* may have been brother to this Henry. In the Register of the Great Seal of Scotland (A.D. 1455) is recorded grant of lands in county Ayr "quas Robert Schankis resignavit."

Henry Schank, infeft and seised in the year 1442. = Christian Melvil, dau. to the Laird of Raith.

Possibly Ninian Schank, in A.D. 1497 Provincial Prior in Scotland of the Dominicans, may have been brother to this Martin.

Possibly Robert Schankis may have been brother to this Martin. "Robert Schankis" is mentioned in the Register of the Great Seal of Scotland in a confirmation of Robert Peirsone—"burgensis de Kingorne"—as owner of bounding property anno 1478.

As also James Schankis, mentioned as owner of bounding tenements in Register of Great Seal of Scotland A.D. 1488-89.

Martin Schank, mar. 1482. = Alison, dau. to "Glasmount Boswell," i.e. Boswell of Glasmount, now known as Boswell of Balmuto. (Glasmount is near Kinghorn.)

Martin Schank, infeft anno 1520. = Bessie Lochore.

Henry Schank, mar. 1565. Henry Schank in 1608 was Elder of Kinghorn. = Bessie, dau. to John Balfour of Ballo.

Martin Shankis, witnesses several baptisms in Kinghorn 1577-78.

Henry Schank or Schankis. Hen. Schankis mar. A.D. 1609. In 1624 was allowed "to set up ane foir-face to the boukar of his dask to saue his wyfe and wynis fra being tred upo' by these y^{t} gois in to the yll." Kirk Treasurer. Henrie Shanks was Fellow of the Fishing Company (incorporated by charter) 1632. In 1643 Henry Shank was "Commissioner of burrowis for Kingorne." (Acts of Parliament of Scotland 1643.) Henry Shank was M.P. for the borough of Kinghorn 1643. (Foster's 'Members of Parliament, Scotland.') = Janet, dau. to Robert Cuninghame or Cuningham of Woodfield. (In 1678 Robert Cunningham of Woodfield was witness to the baptism of one of the children of Henry Shank, grandson of this lady.)

Within an enclosure near the N.E. corner of the kirkyard of Laurencekirk (Kincardineshire):

Sacred to the memory

sometime Minister of the Gospel at S^{t} Cyrus who died at Laurencekirk on the 5th of January 1814 aged 75 years.
Also Diana his wife daughter of the late
Robert Scott of Dunninald parish of Craig who died here on the 24th Feb^{y} 1825 aged 84 years: And Jane their youngest daughter who died at her house in Laurencekirk on the 23rd Nov. 1840.
Also in memory of Henry Shank of Castlerig and Gleniston esq. last surviving son of the above Alexander and Diana Shank who died January
4th 1860 aged 81.

At Banchory-Ternan (Kincardineshire), on a small round-headed stone with the date 1716, also D. M. S. in monogram. The initials T. S. and M. S. are upon another part of it, but the inscription is ill to decipher, though the letters ..... MARGT SC ..... and the date of 1716 are plain enough. If fully read, the inscription would probably be found to have some connection with Martin Schank, who (as shewn by an extract from the Presbytery Records of Kincardine O'Neil) became Minister of Banchory-Ternan in 1699, and died 18 April 1747.

Gravestone at Ceres "to the memory of IOHN SHANKS fewer of Thirdpart, Town House Customs, and Miln of Ceres, who died in 1755 aged 70."

On the east wall of the north transept of Dawlish Church, white marble tablet resting on a black one:

Who by his ability zeal & integrity
Raised himself to the highest Rank in his profession
And closed an Honorable life
After a service of sixty years
On the sixth of February 1823
Aged eighty three.*

* This "aged eighty three" is a mistake, as the Kinghorn Register in the Register House, Edinburgh, gives 26 April 1726 as the date of his baptism, which would make him aged 97.

Also of Margaret his Widow
Who died Febʳʸ 18th 1843
aged eighty years.

Vavasour Family.—I shall feel much obliged for any information respecting the parentage of Thomas Vavasour of Kippax, who died 1678. I think his mother's name was Frances and that she was sister of William Archer of West Cottingwith. He had a sister Margaret, who married first Watson ; secondly to Thos. Nicholson of York. John Vavasour of Naburne, whose will was proved 1679, mentions his cousins Thomas Vavasour of Kippax and Elizabeth his wife, and their son John ; also his cousins Margaret Nicholson, George Hemsworth, and Andrew Barker of Bubwith. He appoints Wm. Palmes, Esq., of Naburne to be his executor.

Boston Lodge, near Tadcaster. Wm. Clarke Vincent.

Arms.—On a hatchment (now destroyed) in the church at Seend, co. Wilts, in 1821 were the following arms : "1st, Argent, a chevron between three garbs sable, in chief a crescent for difference gules ; 2nd, Sable, two bars ermine, in chief three crosses pattée or ; 3rd, Argent, sun in full glory gules, in chief a crescent sable. On the left side of this shield is an escutcheon bearing on the sinister side the third quartering of the above with the impaling of the second, on the dexter side the first quartering impaling of the second."

This blazon is copied from a printed Collection of Wiltshire M.I. in 2 vols. fol. 1821; I believe only six copies were printed, one of which is in the College of Heralds, and another in the Library of the Devizes Museum, lately acquired at the sale of the Stourhead Library. Whose are these arms ? A. S.

† The family of More was of Morehouse in Wivelsfield from about A.D. 1248 to A.D. 1731, when the name died out in an heiress, Elyot, married to John Middleton, Esq. There is a short pedigree in Berry's 'Sussex Genealogies.'

‡ This family possessed the manor of Otehall in Wivelsfield from A.D. 1438 to A.D. 1537, after which it appears to have passed by the marriage of an heiress to the family of Godman. The Attrees were subsequently of Theobalds in this parish from about A.D. 1560 to A.D. 1823.

§ The manor of Lunces in Wivelsfield belonged to the family of At Dean al's Warren from A.D. 1478 to A.D. 1634, when it appears to have passed by the marriage of an heiress to John Rowe, grandson of the celebrated Sussex antiquary of the same name. It subsequently passed through the families of Farncombe, Tuffnell, and Chcesman, to William Bacon, Esq., the present lord of the manor.

‖ Appears from Le Neve's 'Fasti' and Newcourt's 'Repertorium' to have been Archdeacon of Lewes and Precentor of St. Paul's, and a man of some little note in his day.

¶ Correctly spelt; the name Attree signifying "at the ree" or river, and not "at the tree," as Lower and Bardsley both incorrectly give it.

NOTES.

[1] The writer, the eldest and only surviving child of her parents, was baptized 2 Jan. 1624-5 at St. Benet's Gracechurch, London. The place of her marriage (recorded as above) is unknown. She was buried 8 Jan. 1683-4, with her husband and many of her children, at St. Bride's, London. Will dated 13 Sept. 1683; proved 17 Jan. 1683-4 in P.C.C.

[2] Citizen and Merchant Taylor of London. Apprenticed 23 June 1628. Free 4 July 1636. Died 7 and was buried 13 Nov. 1677 at St. Bride's, London, aged 67. Will dated 5 and proved 23 Nov. 1677 in P.C.C.

[3] He was of Hownell in Taynton, co. Gloucester, and died 1 Nov. 1654, aged 88 years 6 months and 18 days. By his wife Frances, dau. of James Colwell of Newent, co. Gloucester (whom he married in 1595, and who died 9 Dec. 1654, about a month after him, aged about 80), he had Thomas Ayleway, his son and heir, who married at Eastnor, co. Hereford, Judith, dau. of Richard Cocks, and who (with his said wife) was living Sept. 1665. The pedigree of Aylway is entered in the 'Visitation of Oxon, 1634,' of which what purports to be a copy is printed by the Harleian Society, vol. v.; while another pedigree of Ayleway, with arms and crest, extracts from the parish registers of Taynton, and other notes, is printed also by that Society, vol. xxi., p. 229, among the "Miscellaneous Pedigrees" given in the Appendix to the 'Visitation of Gloucestershire, 1623.'

[4] He was aged 32 at the Visitation of Dorset in 1623. He resided chiefly at Newington Butts, Surrey. By his first wife only he had issue. She was Susan, dau. of Robert Offley of Gracechurch Street, London, Merchant, by Anne, dau. of Sir Edward Osborne, sometime Lord Mayor of London, and was baptized 26 Oct. 1600 at St. Benet's Gracechurch, where (having died at Newington Butts) she was buried 29 Aug. 1661. His will, dated 14 Sept. 1668, was proved 21 Oct. following in P.C.C. Katharine, his second wife, survived him. Her will, as of Melton Mowbray, co. Leicester, widow, dated 24 May 1688, was proved 5 Jan. 1691-2 in P.C.C. The pedigree of this branch of the family of Hastings is recorded in the Visitation of Leicestershire (K. 2, fo. 25), 1681.

[5] He was second son of George, the fourth Earl of Huntingdon, and was himself a very celebrated character. He died 5 Oct. 1650, aged 99 years, and was buried at Horton, Dorset. See Hutchins's 'Dorset,' iii., 155, etc.

[6] Died young. Place of burial not known.

[7] Citizen and Merchant Taylor of London. Apprenticed Oct. 1661. Free Jan. 1668-9. Died unmarried. Buried 9 Dec. 1714 at St. Bride's, London. Will dated 22 Oct. 1714; proved 13 Dec. following in P.C.C.

[8] She appears to have been the only child of this large family who married (see note 22), and to have been the survivor of them all. She died 6 June 1732, and was buried (with her parents) at St. Bride's, Fleet Street. See her marriage to John White in the last entry of these Memoranda. Her will, as "of Mortlake, Surrey, widow," dated 16 Aug. 1731; proved 31 July 1732 in P.C.C.

[9] Died an infant. Buried 26 Sept. 1652 at St. Bride's, London.

[10] Died young. Buried 13 June 1661 at St. Bride's, London.

[11] In 'Royal Descents; a Genealogical List of the several Persons entitled to Quarter the Arms of the Royal Houses of England,' by (an accurate genealogist) C. E. Long, 1845, 4to, at page 10 occurs this passage: "Descendants of Henry Hastings of Newington Butts, viz., descendants, if any, of Thomas Alway (who was living 1691), son of John Alway, by Anne, dau. and heir of the said Henry Hastings." The date 1691 is probably a mistake for 1688, the first being the date of the probate, while the last (24 May 1688) is the date of the making of the will (mentioned in note 4 above) of Katharine Hastings, widow, the step-grandmother of this Thomas Ayleway, who bequeaths him a legacy therein. He is never heard of after this date, nor any his issue, and probably died s.p. before 1714, the date of his brother Henry's will.

[12] Died young. Place of burial not known.

[13] Died young. Buried 19 Jan. 1657-8 at St. Bride's, London.

[14] Died unmarried, being of St. Magnus the Martyr, London. Adm'on 7 Jan. 1725-6 in P.C.C. granted to Susanna White, widow, sister and next of kin.

[15] Died young. Buried 3 Aug. 1675 at St. Bride's, London.

[16] Died unmarried at St. John's, Gloucester. Will dated 25 April 1770; proved 3 Dec. following in P.C.C. by her niece Susanna [née White], wife of John Lloyd.

[17] Died an infant. Buried 18 May 1665 at St. Bride's, London.

[18] Died young in the lifetime of her mother.

[19] Died young at St. Martin's in the Fields, and was buried thence 11 May 1670 at St. Bride's, London.

[20] See note 2.

[21] See note 8.

[22] He was of Paternoster Row, Silkman, Citizen and Mercer of London, being son of Peter White of Trelogas, near Truro, by Alice his wife, and grandson of Robert White of Truro, by Meriell, dau. of Humphrey Sydenham; see Visitation of Cornwall, 1620, in the College of Arms, though the pedigree is omitted in the copy printed by the Harleian Society. Born 11 and bapt. 24 Jan. 1631 at Truro. Married firstly, 12 June 1660, Aurelia, dau. of Thomas Hollier, Barber Surgeon of London, by whom he had a large family. She died 2 and was buried 6 Dec. 1679 at Camberwell. He married secondly, 23 Feb. 1681-2, Susanna Ayleway as above, by whom he had but one child Susanna (representative of her mother), who married John Lloyd of Gloucester, and was ancestress of the family of Crawley-Boevey, Baronets. The will of Mr. White is dated 28 March 1700, and proved 28 Feb. 1700-1 in P.C.C.

[23] Uncle to "Mrs Susana," being elder brother to her father; see note 3.

[24] See note 1.

[25] Anne, sister of John Ayleway (the father of "Mrs Susana"), married, 4 May 1635, at Taynton, co. Gloucester, John Clarke of the City of London.

THE LAST DAYS OF HARINGTON AT KELSTON.*

The Demolition of their stately Mansion.

In 1764 Cæsar Hawkins, Esq., having fully completed his purchase of Kelston Manor, commenced the demolition of the house on which the first Haringtons of Kelston had lavished an enormous sum. The far-reaching terraces, discernible to this day, and the position of the outbuildings which remain, shew that this mansion must have covered a very large area. Its destruction was effected before the Harington who had been compelled to sell his property was dead. He retired to Bath and survived his house at Kelston. This remarkable edifice, built, as we are told, from the designs of James Barrozzi of Vignola, was razed to the ground; no one preserving any memento of it, either by paint or pencil. No interest in things ancient or remarkable seems to have affected the mind or stayed the hand of the destroyer. Kelston House fell, and none can shew us even a rough sketch or outline of what it was. A rude tradition of its grandeur alone remains now (1885) among the oldest villagers, who remember to have heard their grandsires speak of it, themselves being now full eighty years of age. To the enquiry how it came to be taken down without any memorial being retained of it, I can only answer it was done in the Georgian Era. Should it be asked why it was taken down at all, the only intelligible reason I can assign for its demolition is on account of its vast size or probably defective state of repair. The mansion was no doubt too large for a single estate to maintain. If its decorations were faded or crumbled with decay, it would have been costly to renew them. It was probably unsuitable also in respect to its interior arrangements for any ordinary tenant. It is impossible to conceive that a fabric completed no further back than 1580, and built with scrupulous care throughout (its erection extended over a period of fifteen years), could require that its main structures should be removed. In fact we know they did not so require from seeing with our own eyes other work of the same period and done by the same hands attempted to be broken up. Actual experience of similar buildings at Kelston confirms the truth of the village tradition, which asserts that the solidity of the walls of Kelston House was so great in 1764-5, that they had to be broken and torn up bit by bit with iron tools. We know that October 1765 did not find the destruction wholly accomplished. This may have been caused by the severe labour it entailed on the destroyers to do their work; and another reason for its lingering dissolution may have been a desire to utilize the excellent materials of it a second time. One of the stables attached to the house is still standing, and the wall which secured the Harington fruit-garden remains to this day erect. It is a pattern for modern masons to copy. Now, if we can speak thus of a stable and garden wall, what may we not think of the structural solidity of the mansion itself.

But next we come to a most interesting fact. Out of this wreck of all things, one stone, most curiously carved, now remains; and more than that, is going altogether to escape oblivion. For the writer has had this lone survivor of the Harington House photographed, and can give his readers a sight of it through the further process of lithography (see Plate). And he has good grounds for supposing that all who look upon it are indebted for their sight of this unique specimen of Barozzi's work in Somersetshire to the casual visit of an antiquarian rambler in the neighbourhood of Bath in 1765, Dr. Pocock. This antiquary fortunately paid Kelston a visit whilst its "Great House" was suffering from "axes and hammers," and attracted by the ornamentation of this stone, we believe that he must have solicited its preservation. That its preservation is due to Dr. Pocock seems a quite fair inference; because his notes taken that day are extant in the British Museum, making pointed reference to this sculpture. This stone alone remains (1885) of the edifice he visited. Surely we are warranted in connecting its preservation with the antiquary's visit.

SCULPTURE FROM STONE MANTEL-PIECE IN THE MANSION OF THE HARINGTONS AT KELSTON.

A Brief Description of the Mansion at Kelston built by James Barozzi of Vignola for the Haringtons.

Taken from Dr. Pocock's Tour MS. (Additional MSS., Brit. Mus., No. 14260, f. 213).

Bath, 1764. "Another day I went on the south of the river (Avon) and crossed two miles from the town to the other side. A mile and a half from this is Kelston (Kilhe-Ton, Wood Town). Kelston was the estate of John Harrington, who built a noble single house here of the design of Barozzi of Vignola. There is a handsome Doric door-case to it, with niches in front, divided by Ionic pillars; and at the back of the house is a door-case, if I mistake not, with an Ionic entablature, and a broken pediment with a vase in the middle, which is not judged to be in good taste, but it is in other respects a fine door-case.

"There are two grand chimney-pieces—one in the Corinthian order, the other a bad execution of a kind of Tuscan, with a bas-relief of a king and people about him, and a tower as with men on it, under it [the bas-relief] is this inscription: Psalme CV.

"The windows are the large kind divided into several compartments. There is a grand room both below and above in which are these chimney-pieces; within them are two smaller rooms divided in two by cage-work, to which are closets in the [? one] tower. The staircase is in the other tower, the floors of which are of solid timber. The room up two pair of stairs seems to have been designed for a gallery; so that the sleeping rooms seem to have been in the tower. The house is all hewn stone, but of the tower only the coigns and window frames. A wing joined on each side to it of stables and kitchen offices. They are pulling all down to build a house in a very fine situation on the hill over it.* Mr. Hawkins, the surgeon,† having bought the estate."

A Comment on the Sculptured Stone by the Writer.

The subject of the carved stone would seem to be "The exaltation of Joseph," as indicated by the reference given beneath the feet of the chief figures ("Psalme CV."). We take this as the first meaning and retrospective interpretation, so to say, of the stone and of the grouping to be found upon it. As to the dress and surroundings being those of the sculptor's own day, though referring to subjects of the Old Testament, the sculptor only follows medieval custom in this.

But, besides the first and serious meaning of the sculpture (the subject of which was probably furnished by Sir John Harington himself), we think we see a second intention in the treatment, one that is spiced with Sir John's own genius, which loved to point religious topics with incisive wit. (Compare his zeal for the restoration of Bath Abbey with the joke he played off on Bishop Montague to stimulate the sacred work.)

The exalted figure, circled with a ruff, poised on slender legs, may serve for Joseph, of whose physical characteristics no one knows much; but the princely figure, we think, describes no less our pedantic King James I. The suppliants (one with a bag in his hand) may be Joseph's brethren, come to buy corn of the quondam prisoner, and escorted by attendants to his kingly presence. But they probably express Harington's own experience of the best method of approaching princes in his day. That kneeling figure seems to portray Sir John himself or his eldest son, and to say, if you want a grant of manors confirmed, accompany your suit with a bag. The Haringtons received a grant of confirmation from King James, which made their manor freehold, and irrevertible to the crown. King James must have stood well in Harington's estimation after that. We cannot tell now what strings were pulled to gain that grant; but it is conceivable that Harington knew that they were purse strings. A tower may be seen to the left, with heads protruding from the top, as of prisoners desiring to escape. Now the imprisonment

* Either this represents a mere rumour prevalent at the time (1764), or else it is an error for "Hill over the River;" because the Hawkins mansion does not stand on the hill above the old site, nor was it ever commenced there.

† Afterwards Sir Cæsar Hawkins, Bart.

of Joseph was an important incident in his career; nor does the parallel fail in the life of King James. He had known strictures placed upon his freedom (the Raid of Ruthven in particular in 1581-2), and such incidents within the memory of Sir John Harington of Kelston were possibly utilised upon this stone. Let us not forget that Joseph was aided by miraculous wisdom in his transition from a prison to the right hand of Power. May we also apply the language of Psalm CV. to King James. When the Scottish nobles "let him go free," then he "also came" into England and "taught his senators wisdom."*

Entries of Births, etc., taken from the fly-leaf of a book, dated 1696, formerly belonging to James Inglish, grandson of the above James Inglish of Edinburgh.

The day of my marriage to my wife Isabella Wilson was 3rd Oct. 1745.
The day of my marriage to Miss Sarah Hemsworth was June 1st 1773.
James David was born 2 min: before 5 o'clock in the morning of March 23rd 1774.
Isabella was born half an hor after 12 at noon Oct. 19th 1776.
James was born etc. Dec. 25th 1779.
Mary Wilson married to my husband Dec. 24th 1697.
John was born Ap. ye 23rd 1699.
Isabella was born Jan. 27, 1699-1700.
Ann was born Jan. 3rd 1700.
Isabell was born June ye 24, 1702.

I shall be much obliged to any one who can tell me what relationship existed between James Inglish, or Inglis, of Edinburgh, who is buried in Bunhill Fields, London, said there to be 45 years old at the time of his death, and the Inglish family given in the 'London Visitation of 1633.' The arms on the tombstone of the Inglishes are: Azure, a lion saliant gardant argent, three mullets or.

Also can any one kindly tell me what relation Robert Hanson of Normanton, mentioned at p. 307, whose daughter Mary married Sir Thomas Grey Cullum, Bart., was to Capt. Ralph Hanson, who married Martha, dau. of Metcalf Procter of Thorpe-on-the-Hill? Ralph Hanson's father was Oswald Hanson of Wakefield, grandson of William Hanson of Stanley, by Katherine, dau. of Gervase Hatfield of Hatfield. Capt. Ralph Hanson, I believe, married in Jamaica 1773, as I have not been able to find any record of his marriage in England. Will any one kindly inform me to whom I ought to apply, and if there are any registers in Jamaica temp. 1773? J. D. H.

* This curious and deeply interesting stone was rescued from outdoor exposure and further injury than it had already sustained by the late Lieut.-Col. Inigo Jones, who, upon his coming to reside at Kelston in 1857-8, had it placed under cover; and, through the courtesy of a member of the family since his decease, the photograph, from which the illustration (see Plate) is derived, was allowed to be taken. The stone itself is freestone and native to the district, measures four feet square and six inches thick.

THE LAST DAYS OF HARINGTON AT KELSTON.*

(Concluded from p. 318.)

A Memoir or Brief Biographical Notice of Dr. Henry Harington, M.D.

But it is time to return from the contemplation of the wreck of Kelston House to the last heir born in it, and close my Harington History and Memoranda of Kelston with his memoir.

Dr. Henry Harington, whose memory still lingers in Bath as of one long known there and very highly esteemed, comes under our notice from the first accompanied by sad reflections. If we grieve over the demolition of the stately mansion at Kelston, what must be our regret and sympathy for the last Harington born within its walls, baptized in the old parish church, and associated with all the ancestral surroundings. It seems hard that the only surviving son of his parents—the only child born to them after they themselves had entered on the family estate—should never himself enjoy the property, but, upon his coming of age, should find himself without power of intervention in the family arrangements, because his elder brother had already joined his father in barring the entail. John, the first son of Henry Harington, Esq., by Mary his wife, was about ten years older than the subject of our memoir, and had been born before his parents came to reside at Kelston. He joined in all the necessary legal steps for giving his father a title to Kelston in fee simple, and enabling him to sell the estate whenever he deemed fit. But before that day arrived (1759) he was himself no more. His name is missing from all the legal proceedings for sale to Cæsar Hawkins, Esq. A note is found in some family memoranda that this John died childless in 1751, but no word is added more. So we are left to the chapter of accidents for ever discovering where so important a factor in Harington history met his death. Not born at Kelston; he did not die at Kelston; nor does the Register of Kelston record his burial.

In 1759, Henry, the younger, had the pain of witnessing the sale of the last Harington estate, and long before that he must have well known the straitened circumstances of his father. The encumbrances on Kelston, chiefly caused by the legacies and dowers payable out of it, had amounted to a total of £8000 secured by mortgage to one Joseph Nicholls of "the Six Clerks' Office." The interest was at four per cent., and considering that the greater portion of the manor was out on leases for lives, paying very moderate yearly rents, and small chief rents and heriots "when they should happen," it was quite obvious, in 1759, that Henry, the elder, could no longer support his county position. On resolving therefore to sell, he appears to have been aided in carrying out the necessary transactions for sale and conveyance to Hawkins (the purchaser) by Child's London Bank. Agatha Child, widow of the late Samuel Child, Banker, is made a party in several deeds. During this period of family decadence, Henry, the younger, the subject of our memoir, had been pursuing his school and collegiate studies; it is said with a view of taking Holy Orders, which he afterwards changed for the profession of medicine. Born in 1727, he became a private pupil of Dr. Geo. Fothergill, father of a Vicar of Twerton-on-Avon of that name, and brother, as we believe, of Dr. Fothergill, Provost of Queen's College, Oxford. He would be drawn to enter "Queen's" by these and his family associations (i.e. through the Hudlestons and his uncle William Harington); he matriculated at that college in December 1745; and graduated in Arts, B.A. 1749, M.A. 1752 (June).

In December 1752 (his brother John being now dead, and himself qualified to practice in medicine, though he had not yet taken his professional degrees at Oxford) he married and settled at Wells. His wife was Martha, daughter of Edward Musgrave of Oxford, and tradition says, what her portrait confirms, that she was a lady famed for her beauty. This marriage took place at Swyncombe near Henley-on-Thames.

The reason for settling at Wells may be found in the attraction of having relatives already established there. Two Hudlestons were successive Rectors of St.

Cuthbert's Church in that cathedral city. Henry Harington's elder children were born at Wells; but in 1757 his uncle Edward Harington, who had long held an eminent position as a Doctor of Physic in Bath, died, and this, no doubt, induced the nephew to remove to the wider sphere accorded him for practice in Bath. In 1762 he took the degrees of M.B. and M.D. at Oxford by accumulation upon the 2nd day of July. He was now fairly launched upon his life's career, and took up a well-received position in the neighbourhood of his ancestral property, from which he continued to derive some small income of reserved rent, but this he subsequently sold to the Hawkinses for a life annuity.

At the time when Dr. Henry Harington entered upon his medical practice in Bath, the city of hot springs was approaching the zenith of its fame as a place of fashionable resort during winter. With Dr. Edward Harington's introduction he would readily succeed to a highly remunerative connection among the best families and invalid visitors of Bath. Dr. Henry Harington was an extremely genial man, full of wit, and passionately fond of music. On arriving at Bath he threw himself heart and soul into the life of the city, and identified himself with all the fashionable pursuits there; for which he was well adapted by genius and education. His father too was living in Bath up to 1769, when he died in good old age. So, by settling in Bath, the Doctor would seem to have surrounded himself with all that could make his life happy and prosperous. He served the civic offices, promoted the charities and recreations of the city. He composed addresses for the the Corporation on their special occasions, wrote prologues for the theatres, founded the Harmonic Society, frequented the Catch Club, attended the performance of sacred music both of his own and others in the Abbey Church, wrote inscriptions for the public edifices, and gave a good toast when he was called on to propose one.* In short, it is easy to see that he filled a very useful and prominent position, standing out as a central figure in Bath when she was at her gayest and grandest.

Although a man of classical education and decided literary tastes, he never distinguished himself by any great literary work. He wrote, however, several fugitive pieces and bon mots, of which the following has not been published before, as we believe:

"THE 3 ENGLISH PHILOSOPHERS."

Three Wondrous sages 'midst these Eras born,
Revered for Knowledge, Albion's Isle adorn.
One called forth Science as she slumbering lay,
And led the Dawn of intellectual Day.
The next thro' life immers'd in Thought profound,
Toiling for Truth, search'd Nature's ample round.
The third reviewed with new enlightened soul,
Improved all past and perfected the whole.
(Una tribus Gratia Est.)

To Wm. Watson with Dr. Harington's Compliments.

He was not the editor of the 'Nugæ Antiquæ of Harington,' second edition, 1778-9 (let us place that on record once for all). Writers in attributing that office to him have confounded him with Dr. Henry Harington of Norwich, his son, who was a Doctor of Divinity and not of Physic. The 'Nugæ' might well have been compounded originally by the Doctor of Medicine, for it is a mixture of everything under the sun; composed of many valuable yet some far from valuable ingredients. Would that the original documents, from which the first edition (1769) was printed, were still forthcoming. We might then be able to sift out the fictions from the facts (there are many fancies in it, though no doubt facts prevail), and we might get some of the dates verified, and the various John Haringtons identified.

* A specimen of one of Dr. Harington's Toasts:

Here's to Rex, Lex, and Pontifex!
A toast no loyal heart rejects:
The King in safety all protects,
The Church to future bliss directs.
May knaves who plot the state to vex
Find Law provide for all their necks!

Whilst the Doctor of Divinity perpetuated the 'Nugæ' by a new edition, and added to the original, the Doctor of Medicine became the author of a peculiar treatise in support of the Doctrine of the Holy Trinity, by reference to the properties of an equilateral triangle, and to the unity of sound in the combinations of the triple cord. The father and son seem to have crossed each other's lines of work. Nor have we yet done with incongruities; for the Doctor of Medicine owes his highest fame and most lasting reputation to his talent for music! In this science he was a man of great culture, and endowed with much power, both as a composer and connoisseur. Mr. Luard, in the 'Biographie Universelle,' declares some of the Doctor's compositions to be not inferior to Handel. Few of us, I fear, are competent to enter this field of criticism, and say yes or no to the assertion. But we believe that the anthem written by Dr. Harington on the most solemn of all subjects, the solitude in death of our Lord Jesus Christ, and embodying the words, "Now there was darkness over all the land, and about the ninth hour Jesus cried, Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthani," was a grand composition. It is commemorated on the author's monumental tablet in Bath Abbey, and given in full in Dr. Marshall's 'Collections for Cathedral and Collegiate Churches,' No. 482. It has been sung at Exeter and perhaps in other Cathedrals during the present century. A companion piece to this was "Our Saviour's Prayer in the Garden of Gethsemane." Besides anthems of many parts for all voices, he wrote canons, and some psalm tunes which might soften the asperities of Tait and Brady; and besides sacred pieces he composed much of a lighter sort, duets, glees, and catches. Three volumes of his musical works were collected and published by his daughter Isabella, the wife of Archdeacon (Josiah) Thomas. I have seen one of them. Perhaps the most popular, even to the present day, of all his pieces is the well-known round "How sweet is the Pleasure, how great the Delight," etc. An important notice of Dr. Harington as a musician occurs in the 'Bath and Bristol Magazine,' 1834, vol. iii., pp. 348–356.

With this memoir my notes (which have been long continued) on the Haringtons of Kelston are brought to a close, for the simple reason that with Dr. Henry Harington, M.D., their territorial connection with Kelston ceases, and passes beyond the scope of Kelston Memoranda. A few words more in parting, and I shall have done and said all that I can about those whose memories were fast decaying and recollections fading out when I came to Kelston in 1858. Their family history (closely scanned) has contrasted favourably with that of many, in shewing no gross extravagances nor vicious follies. Their fortunes came to an end as does the human body by causes of natural decay. Their wills and dealings with property shew great thoughtfulness and kindliness. Indeed, their liberality towards the people and parishes with which they were connected often seemed to err on the side of too great generosity in proportion to their means. Dr. Henry Harington, the last of his race with whom my pen is concerned,* was no exception to this; he was of mild temper and graceful manners, performing many kindnesses to the poor gratuitously, and even answering their appeals to him for advice by letter when they could not travel to see and consult him. In his love of music, poetry, and wit, and in fondness of society, and in his taste for mechanism, he reminds us more of his ancestor, the Knight of Queen Elizabeth's time, than any other member of the family. Cradled amid the difficulties of decaying fortune, he died in good circumstances, regretted and beloved by all who knew him, because he was cultured, genial, and sympathetic in word and deed. He passed to his rest, in Northumberland Buildings (No. 4), Bath, on Monday the 15th January 1816, at the very advanced aged of 89 years. His resting-place-in-hope is Kelston churchyard, and the site of his grave a few paces to the north side of the chancel door.

* No doubt the many friends of Edward Charles Harington, Canon and Chancellor of Exeter Cathedral and its noble benefactor, will not allow his life to fade from recollection for want of a memoir written by some one of them who knew him best and loved him most.

HANSON. (Vide pp. 307, 318.)

I enclose an extract from Roby's 'Parish of St. James's, Jamaica,' containing such references as I could find there, respecting the family of Hanson, and hope it may be of some use to J. D. H.

The Jamaica Parish Registers after 1773 have been fairly well kept, but before the year 1711 few exist that are perfect, and all before that date, of the Parish of St. James's are missing, but St. Andrew's has them from before 1705.

Application for searches or official copies of records, wills, etc., should, I believe, be made to the Registrar of the Supreme Court (T. Hendrick).

B. F. SCARLETT.

(1) Mary. = Richard Stoddart, Member for St. Thomas in the East, Major of Militia; died 1714. = (2) Anna Wilhelmina, da. of Major Wm. Archbold, Member for St. Andrew's, 1688. Born 1687. = (2) John Hanson of Hanson's Pen and "Saltponds" in St. Catherine's, Member for St. Thomas in the Vale 1715-16, and for St. Elizabeth in 1719. Ob. 1720-1.

- Anthony Stoddart, bapt. 1700.
- Frances, da. of Daniel Curtis of St. Thomas in the East ; ob. 19 Aug. 1761, æt. 43. = John Hanson, bapt. 5 Feb. 1718-9, mar. 29 Oct. 1741 ; ob. 31 Oct. 1745, æt. 27.

A descendant, John Hanson, represented St. Catherine's in 1821. The property of "Saltponds" was bought in 1704 from the heirs of Sir Thos. Modyford, and in 1837 still belonged to the descendants of John Hanson the elder.

Willoughby.—Wanted, to learn the ancestry of Col. William Willoughby of Kent, who commanded a regiment in the Civil War 1644, and in 1648-9 was appointed Master Attendant for Portsmouth and Commissioner of the Royal Navy. He was born about 1588, and died in 1651. His wife's name was Elizabeth. His son Francis Willoughby went to New England in 1638, returned in 1651, in 1652 succeeded his father as Commissioner of the Navy, in 1658 was M.P. for Portsmouth, in 1662 returned to America with his third wife, Margaret (Locke), widow of Daniel Taylor, was Deputy Governor of Massachusetts from 1665 till his death in 1671. The arms on the mural tablet of Col. William Willoughby at Portsmouth are, Or, fretty azure. Crest: A lion's head couped at the shoulders guardant or, between two wings expanded gold fretty azure; mantled gules, doubled argent. They are the same arms as those given in Burke's 'General Armory' (ed. 1878) to Sir Francis Willoughby, knighted in Ireland in 1610. This Sir Francis was from Beauchamp's Court, of the Warwickshire branch of the Kent family. His son Deputy Governor Francis Willoughby used the same arms upon his seal. Among the descendants of the Deputy Governor very distinct family traditions have come down with some fine needlework said to have been wrought by Queen Elizabeth when Princess in captivity, given by her to her Maid of Honour, a Willoughby, and by the latter given to Lord Francis Willoughby, who was a relative of Queen Elizabeth. It is a historical fact that Margaret Willoughby, sister of Sir Francis Willoughby of Wollaton, was assigned in 1555 to the household of Princess Elizabeth, with whom she remained till her marriage in 1558 to Sir Matthew Arundel. The Princess Elizabeth was second-cousin once removed to Sir Francis and Margaret Willoughby. Two daughters of this Sir Francis Willoughby of Wollaton married two sons of Thomas Willoughby, Sheriff of Kent in 1590, of the de Eresby family. The arms of the early Willoughbys de Eresby were, Or, fretty azure; the earliest crest, given them by Glover the Somerset Herald, temp. Elizabeth, is a bat or demi-bat volant, the wings fretty. This crest was used on the monument of Peregrine Bertie, Lord Willoughby de Eresby, son of Catharine Willoughby, Duchess of Suffolk, and Lord Richard Bertie, who took his mother's name and title, and signed himself "P. Willagby." It is described as "a bat displayed; mantled gules, doubled argent." A manuscript in the Library of Canterbury gives the arms of Peregrine Bertie, Lord Willoughby, as borne in 1590. The crest is a full round, fierce head, as though of a lion, but the wings on either side are those of a bat and fretty. This crest, with a distinct lion's face, is seen in Edmondson's 'Baronagium Genealogicum,' vol. i., p. 54, as that of Robert, son of Peregrine Bertie, who became Lord Willoughly de Eresby in 1601, and Earl of Lindsey in 1627. He descended from Sir Christopher Willoughby, who was ancestor of the branch of the Willoughby de Eresby family, before mentioned, which intermarried with the Wollaton Willoughbys. The bat's face of the early Willoughbys had been changed to that of a lion, while the bat's wings had been retained. These facts would seem to shew that Col. William Willoughby descended from the Kent Willoughbys de Eresby. Any information connecting him with that family, or in any way shewing his origin, or that of his wife Elizabeth, will be received with thanks by Mrs. Edward Elbridge Salisbury, New Haven, Connecticut, United States.

NOTES ON HARVEY INSCRIPTIONS.

[1] The Harvey Chapel is a plain rectangular building of brick with high pitched tile roof, on the north side of Hempstead Church, adjoining and communicating with the chancel, and lighted by three large windows; and appears to have been erected about 1655 by Eliab Harvey, the merchant of London, together with the "outer" vault beneath, as a place of sepulture for his family. It is externally from north to south about 19 ft. 10 in. and from east to west 28 ft. 9 in., and divided by a wall into two apartments, one of which, on the east, was formerly used as a school, but now as a vestry room, and the western is the mortuary chapel proper. This latter, until lately enclosed with a chestnut screen and kept under lock and key, is, with a portion extending into the chancel, about 21 ft. 6 in. by 10 ft. 9 in., having the floor 2 ft. above that of the nave. The "outer" and original vault, which was formerly entered by stairs from the recess (8 ft. by 6 ft.) between Dr. and Capt. Edw. Harvey's monuments, but now, from outside of the church, is 24 ft. 6 in. by 17 ft., and 7 ft. 4 in. high; the "inner" one, built (as appears by an inscription cut in stone over the entrance) by Eliab Harvey of Claybury, in 1766, being 17 ft. 10 in. by 15 ft. 6 in., of similar height and arched with brick. They contain in all fifty-one coffins (including Dr. Harvey's, removed in 1883 to the sarcophagus in chapel above), fourteen of which are of lead, and mostly very curious, resembling Egyptian mummy cases in shape, and having raised letters, and masks of the features thereon. That of Eliz. Harvey, 1696, and all the subsequent coffins were of lead enclosed in wood, and are very similar to those of the present day.

[2] Second daughter of Eliab and Mary. Bapt. at St. Laurence Pountney, London, 11 Nov. 1642.

[3] Fourth and youngest daughter of Eliab and Mary. Bapt. at Putney, co. Surrey, 2 June 1647.

[4] The immortal discoverer of the circulation of the blood. Eldest son of Thos. and Joane. B. at Folkestone, co. Kent, 1 April 1578; bur. in "outer" vault 26 June 1657; re-interred in sarcophagus, provided by the College of Physicians, London, in Harvey Chapel above, 18 Oct. 1883.

[5] Fifth son of Thos. and Joane. B. 26 Feb. 1589-90; mar. Mary, daughter of Fras. West of London, at St. Laurence Pountney, 15 Feb. 1624-5. Built the Harvey Chapel with "outer" vault beneath. (See note 1).

[6] Second daughter of Sir Eliab and Dorothy. Bapt. at St. Peter le Poor, London, 19 Nov. 1661; ob. 4 Feb. 1664-5.

[7] Daughter of Fras. West of London. Bur. 18 Jan. 1673-4. This is the first Harvey burial entered in Hempstead Burial Register, as the same does not commence until April 1665.

[8] Fourth son of Danl. Harvey of London, Merchant, and of Combe, co. Surrey, and Eliz. Bapt. at St. Laurence Pountney 10 Nov. 1631; mar. Eliz., daughter of Edward, Lord Montagu; knighted at Canterbury 26 May 1660; Ambassador to the Porte, where he died c. April 1672, but not bur. here until 1 Oct. 1674. He had a Grant of Arms from Sir Wm. Segar: Or, on a chief indented sable three crescents arg. What is believed to be his coffin is of lead, but in a most ruinous condition.

[9] Fourth daughter of Sir Eliab and Dorothy. Bapt. at All Hallow's Staining, London, 25 March 1673; bur. 29 Nov. 1677.

[10] Eldest son (but not eventual heir) of Sir Eliab and Dorothy. Bapt. at St. Peter le Poor 2 Nov. 1659; mar. there Dorothy, sole daughter and heiress of Sir Robert Dicer of Uphall in Braughing, co. Hertf., 23 Nov. 1680, and who was then only twelve years of age. Upon his death she mar. his brother William. Bur. 10 June 1681. (See also note 22.)

[11] Third daughter of Sir Eliab and Dorothy. Bapt. at All Hallow's Staining 27 Nov. 1671; bur. 15 Nov. 1686.

[12] Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Edward Harvey of Combe and Eliz. Bapt. at Kingston-on-Thames 20 Feb. 1681-2; bur. 22 Nov. 1686.

[13] Second daughter of Edward Harvey of Combe and Eliz. B. 6, and bapt. at Kingston-on-Thames 13 Nov. 1684; bur. 5 Dec. 1691 according to the Parish Register, but this must be an error, as she did not die until 1 Jan. following.

[14] Bur. 30 Jan. 1692-3.

[15] Martha, sixth daughter of Edward Harvey of Combe and Eliz. B. 20 April, bapt. at Kingston-on-Thames 2 May 1691; bur. 8 April 1695. Not entered in Hempstead Register, but at Kingston-on-Thames as buried there.

[16] Eldest daughter of Sir Eliab and Dorothy. Bur. 30 Jan. 1695-6.

[17] Eldest son of Eliab and Mary. Bapt. at St. Laurence Pountney 3 June 1635; mar. Dorothy, daughter of Sir Thos. Whitmore of Apley, co. Salop, at St. Giles in the Fields, co. Midd., 7 Dec. 1658; knighted at Canterbury 16 May 1660; M.P., J.P., and D.L. co. Essex; entered in Burial Register St. Giles in the Fields as "carried away" 2 March 1698-9, and in that of Hempstead as bur. 14 following. The date 1695 is therefore incorrect.

[18] Entered in Parish Register St. Giles in the Fields as bur. there 28, and at Hempstead 29 Nov. 1701.

[19] Eldest son of Edward and Eliz. Bapt. at St. Bartholomew by the Exchange, London, 4 Dec. 1680; bur. 17 Feb. 1707-8.

[20] Second son of Wm. and Dorothy. B. ? 5 Nov. 1690; ob. of smallpox; bur. 29 March 1710.

[21] Bapt. at St. Laurence Pountney 15 Nov. 1637; bur. 15 Feb. 1710-11.

[22] Relict of her husband's brother Eliab, within five weeks of whose burial she obtained a licence (Bp. Lond. 14 July 1681) to re-marry the brother William, being described therein as "Dorothy Dicer alias Harvey, aged about 13 years and a widow," and the marriage took place at St. Martin Outwich, London, 1 Sept. following; bur. 10 July 1711. Monument in Harvey Chapel states in error that she married 2 Sept., and died aged 48. This and note 10 settle the vexed question as to her parentage, age, and marriage.

[23] Eldest daughter of Wm. Harvey of Winchlow Hall, Hempstead, and of Chigwell, and Mary; ob. an infant; bur. 23 May 1715.

[24] Fourth son of Eliab and Mary. Bapt. at Putney 30 June 1640; mar. Bridget, dau. of Sir Richard Browne, Bart., 1664; bur. 25 Aug. 1719.

[25] Second daughter of Wm. Harvey of Winchlow Hall and Mary; ob. an infant; bur. 28 June 1723.

[26] Bur. 17 Feb. 1725-6.

[27] Seventh daughter of Edward Harvey of Combe and Elizabeth. B. 24 Nov.; bapt. at Kingston-on-Thames 4 Dec. 1692; bur. 10 June 1729.

[28] Second and, by death of his brother Eliab, became eldest son and heir of Sir Eliab. Bapt. at St. Peter le Poor 18 Dec. 1663; mar. Dorothy, sole daughter and heir of Sir Robert Dicer (see notes 10 and 22), M.P. for Essex 1722; bur. 7 Nov. 1731.

[29] Eldest son of Sir Daniel and Elizabeth. Bapt. at St. Giles in the Fields 31 March 1658; mar. (1) Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Sir Eliab Harvey, at St. Peter le Poor 8 May 1679; (2) Elizabeth, daughter of Francis Newport, Earl of Bradford, and relict of Sir Henry Littleton, Bart., c. March 1700; (3) Mary, daughter of .... Carteret, at St. Dionis Backchurch, London, 6 July 1725; ob. at Dunkirk. No entry of the burial in Hempstead Register. Large coffin, 6 ft. 8 in. long, 2 ft. 5 in. broad, and 1 ft. 2 in. deep.

[30] Of Winchlow Hall. B. 20; bapt. at St. Giles in the Fields 30 April 1689; mar. Mary, daughter and heir of Ralph Williamson of Bewick, co. Northumberland; bur. 3 Jan. 1742-3.

[31] Eighth daughter. Bur. 13 July 1745. The age stated cannot be correct, as her mother died 15 Jan. 1695-6. (See note 16.)

[32] Daughter of Sir John Wolstenholme, and wife of Michael Harvey of Combe and of Clifton Maybank, co. Dorset; bur. 26 Nov. 1747.

[35] B. 8; bapt. at St. Anne, Soho, 31 Dec. 1759; bur. 18 Nov. 1760.

[36] Daughter and heir of Ralph Williamson of Bewick, co. Northumberland; bur. 25 April 1761.

[37] Fifth daughter of Edward Harvey of Combe and Elizabeth. Bur. 21 July 1761.

[38] Eldest son of Wm. Harvey of Winchlow Hall and Mary. B. 20; bapt. at St. Giles in the Fields 30 April 1689; bur. 18 June 1763.

[39] Daughter of Richard Benyon of Gidea Hall, co. Essex, Governor of Bengal, and wife of Eliab Harvey of Claybury. Bur. 14 Sept. 1765.

[40] Eldest daughter of Stephen Skinner of Walthamstow, co. Essex, and wife of Wm. Harvey of Winchlow Hall. Bur. 21 March 1767.

[41] Second son of Eliab Harvey of Claybury and Mary. Bur. 16 April 1767.

[42] Eldest son of Eliab Harvey of Claybury and Mary. No entry of the burial in Register.

[43] Second son of Wm. Harvey of Winchlow Hall and Mary. B. 23 May 1716; K.C.; M.P. for Dunwich. Bur. 6 Nov. 1769. Built the "inner" vault under Harvey Chapel. (See note 1.)

[44] Eldest daughter of Eliab Harvey of Claybury and Mary. Bapt. at St. Giles in the Fields 10 Jan. 1760; bur. 19 March 1778.

[45] Third son of Wm. Harvey of Winchlow Hall and Mary. B. and bapt. at Chigwell 17 Aug. 1718. No entry of the burial in Register.

[46] Eldest son of Wm. Harvey of Chigwell and Emma. B. 10; bapt. at Chigwell 30 Sept. 1754; M.P. for Essex 1775; bur. 3 May 1779.

[47] Fourth daughter of Wm. Harvey of Chigwell and Emma. Ob. unmar.; bur. 3 July 1782.

[48] Third son of Eliab Harvey of Claybury and Mary. Bapt. at St. Giles in the Fields 26 Feb. 1765; ob. 15 April, but not bur. here until 2 Oct. following. The coffin, which is of enormous size (7 feet long, 2 feet 9 inches wide, and 1 foot 10 inches deep), is said to contain several coffins, and to have been smuggled over from abroad.

[49] Eldest son of Sir Eliab Harvey of Chigwell and Lady Louisa. Bapt. at Chigwell 25 March 1786; bur. 25 March 1794.

[50] Third and youngest son of Sir Eliab Harvey of Chigwell and Lady Louisa. B. 24 (not 23) Dec. 1801; bapt. at Chigwell 22 March 1802; ob. unmar.; bur. 11 March 1823.

[51] Fourth son of Wm. Harvey of Chigwell and Emma. B. 5; bapt. at Chigwell 26 Dec. 1758; mar. Louisa, youngest daughter and cohcir of Robt., Earl Nugent, 15 May 1784; bur. 27 Feb. 1830. By his death without male issue surviving this branch of the Harvey Family is believed to have become extinct in that line.

[52] Placed out of its proper order in the list, as there is neither inscription on the coffin nor entry of the burial in the Register, and the date has not been ascertained. Mon. in Harvey Chapel, however, records his burial here as son (third and youngest) of Wm. and Dorothy of Chigwell. He was b. c. 1691, and ob. probably young and before 1742.

Sandbach.—Information is desired concerning the ancestry and connections of Francis Sandbach of the Inner Temple, Lord of the Manor of Orkesden, co. Kent. He is mentioned in Hasted's 'Kent,' vol. i., p. 308. He and his mother, Joane or Johane Sandbach, occur also in Chancery Proceedings, temp. Q. Elizabeth. Mr. Grazebrook's 'Heraldry of Worcestershire' contains an interesting article on the Sambaches of Broadway, Child's Wickham, and Snowshill in the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries. Amongst their alliances were Canning, Purefoy, Hobilday, and Kempston. In Collins's 'Peerage' (vol. ix., p. 7, ed. 1812) Sir William Sambach is said to have been Attorney-General of Ireland in the seventeenth century. Further information will be gratefully received.
